

Week-End Bargains

We Are Getting--

Good reputable merchandise to fill the season's demands. We bid for your trade on the basis of "Price" and this—the unanswerable and final argument—linked with our knowledge of this business and our wish to help and be useful, makes this a good place to trade. There has, perhaps, never been a situation calling for the best qualities in a merchant as there is today, but we are doing our best.

Yours truly,

E. Firth & Co.

TEDDY AND HUGHES.

he will adhere rigidly to his plan not to make any real speeches along the route, republican managers here, in Indiana and Ohio have his promise for "platform appearances," and perhaps very brief talks and hand-shaking at all regular train stops. Elkhart was to be the first of these today.

Today is the colonel's birthday. He is 58, and says he is as replete with Roosevelt ginger and pepper as of old. He looks it today, and he looked it yesterday, when he was given a reception that was noisier, bigger and more enthusiastic than those recently accorded President Wilson and Hughes here. He spoke twice. In the afternoon he hit all hyphenates hard, and spoke on woman suffrage and Americanism before 4,000 women who packed the Auditorium. In the evening he even went stronger against "professional Germans and any citizens who are of the 50-50 allegiance variety." The meeting at the stock yards pavilion in the evening was unique. Bedlam got loose the minute he made his way to the platform and continued loose and excessively noisy for 35 minutes.

The speech in the afternoon was very similar to the one he delivered to the women in Denver Tuesday afternoon, except that the colonel was more biting in his denunciation of hyphenates. And his condemnation of President Wilson's European and Mexican policies was also more scathing than at any time since he mounted the stump. He said "any man who even thinks of another nation ahead of the United States should be driven out." He said he has since discovered he flattered President Wilson in a previous speech, when he said "he speaks bombastically and carries a dishrag."

"It is more true to say that he speaks softly and carries a powder puff," said Roosevelt.

Interrupted only once at the evening meeting by hecklers who called "What would you have done with Germany?" he called it a fair question, and said:

"In the first place, I never would have gotten in that fix. But if I had, I should have seized every interned German ship in our ports. Then I should have discussed with Germany not what Germany should give us, but how much we should give back to Germany."

Speaking of "pacifist patterers," he said they could be described as "creatures of the mid-Victorian maiden aunt variety."
